More rules!

On round one, make eye contact with the first player to your left. On round two, make eye contact with the next new player on your left. etc etc

If you are eaten, you are a zombie (congratulations?). You join the horde around the table and make zombie noises while trying to catch non-zombies at the table.

And, at the start of each round, zombies draw a card and pick a target to face off with.

NOTE: Zombies are actually respectful of personal space when not about to eat you.

Overview

You are at a table surrounded by zombies.

To survive, you'll need to impersonate a zombie on your turn by drawing and reading the top card from the deck while making eye contact with the person on your left.

The catch is that zombies have no sense of humor. If either player laughs, giggles, or grins for a count of 5, they are eaten (eliminated). If the reader is not a convincing zombie they are also eaten. The last player at the table "wins".
